ATTEND NORMAL COMMENCEMENT

THIS IS URGENT REQUEST OF PRESIDENT IRA RICHARDSON.

SAYS TOO MANY HERE DON'T KNOW SCHOOL

Suggests That Tuesday Morning Will Be Fine Time for Visiting Maryville's Great Institution.

President Ira Richardson of the Fifth District Normal school urges a more general interest in the affairs of the school here in a signed communication to The Democrat-Forum today. He suggests that Tuesday morning would be a convenient day for the citizens to visit the school and get acquainted with the magnificent equipment provided by the state.

The letter follows:

The State Normal school of this city, in its commencement activities of next week is celebrating the tenth anniversary of the opening of the first session.

These commencement activities include the annual sermon Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the school. The sermon will be preached by Rev. L. M. Hale of the Baptist church. Special music has been provided. On Monday, in the Normal park at 10 o'clock, there will be presented the Shakespearean festival and pageant under the direction of the class of 1916. This pageant is in keeping with the Shakespearean tercentenary, which is being celebrated this year throughout the country. Monday evening in the auditorium of the Normal school the class of 1916 present the annual class play. The annual commencement will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the auditorium. Special music has been provided for this occasion also. The chief address will be delivered by Dr. A. E. Steiner of Grinnell college, Grinnell, Ia.

Urges General Attendance.

In view of the fact that the Normal school sustains a very vital relation to the city of Maryville, and that it presents such exceptional advantages to its young men and women, and that it is acquiring such a marked interest and appreciation among the people of our district and state, I feel that this event is an entirely fitting occasion for the people of Maryville to show their appreciation and interest by attending each and all of these exercises. I feel like emphasizing the special value to the community of two of these events—that of the pageant on Monday morning and of the commencement occasion on Tuesday morning.

It ought to be possible that the bulk of our people could attend these exercises. The senior class and others of the school have been working hard for a creditable presentation of the pageant event. The Normal auditorium ought to be filled to capacity on Tuesday morning at commencement.

Will not our business men and other citizens plan to be with us, especially upon these two events, and also arrange that their clerks and helpers have the opportunity, as far as possible, to enjoy these occasions? I am told quite frequently by citizens of our community that they have never been

New plans have been added to those of the G. A. R. and other pioneers for the historic features of the celebration next Thursday of the seventieth anniversary of the sale of the first town lot which were told of yesterday in The Democrat-Forum.

The G. A. R. will hold a "campfire" all day Thursday for the veterans of the Civil war, both federal and confederate, and for the soldiers of the Spanish-American war. All sailors are also invited to participate. Sedgwick Post will be open all day.

The W. R. C. will serve coffee and "hardtack" to the veterans at meal times. One of the features of the day also will be the reproduction of a civil war recruiting station, with every detail as nearly accurate as possible.

W. R. Jackson, secretary of the Commercial club, upon his return to Maryville yesterday expressed himself as delighted with the plans of the G. A. R. and the other pioneers to add historical features to the attractions for Maryville on the day when the city

ROOSEVELT NAMED BY PROGRESSIVES

THE COLONEL REFUSES TO SAY WHETHER HE'LL ACCEPT.

PARKER OF LOUISIANA FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

Perkins Loses Leadership of Party When Chairman Robins Leads Nominating Revolt.

Special to The Democrat-Forum. Chicago (Auditorium), June 10.—Theodore Roosevelt was unanimously nominated president by the Progressives at 12:31 this afternoon. The nomination was made amidst wild scenes and followed by a mighty demonstration.

John M. Parker of Louisiana was unanimously named as the vice-presidential nominee of the Progressives at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Perkins managed to hold back the mad Moosers until hope of Senator Lodge's choice had been blasted.

Racing with the Republicans to choose a leader, Chairman Robins took the leadership entirely out of the hands of Perkins and lashed the delegations to the nomination. After the nomination the convention recessed until 3 o'clock.

Roosevelt Won't Say Anything.

Oyster Bay, June 10.—Roosevelt declared he had no statement to make at present. It is believed that he will not accept the Progressive nomination if Hughes makes a statement which is satisfactory to the colonel.

Roosevelt in his message later to the Progressives neither accepts nor declines but says that he will take the matter under consideration.

Peace Conference Very Secret.

Chicago, June 10.—A final peace conference met in Chicago at 8:33 with great secrecy. A minute later Perkins and Bonaparte left and said they were still negotiating. It was understood that the Republicans made a proposition which they submitted to Roosevelt.

Before the Roosevelt compromise message was received the Republican-Progressive peace conference agreed on Hughes as the most available candidate of both parties. The agreement was reached at the eleventh hour and after the Progressive convention had gone in session at 10:45 this morning.

Perkins returned to the convention hall and laid the agreement before the leaders. Wild confusion followed and many declared they would not stand for the Perkins plan and would go ahead and nominate Roosevelt.

At 11:55 the Progressives decided to proceed with the nominations.

Perkins Pleads for Delay.

Chicago (Auditorium), June 10.—George W. Perkins held a long conference with the chairman of the delegates and asked them to defer action pending the result of further peace negotiations. Perkins actions indicated that he is anxious that no step be taken that will cause the Republicans to nominate immediately.

From the conference it developed that the movement to eliminate Roosevelt because of his failure to order nominations to proceed would have no significance. The insurgents wanted Gov. Hiram Johnson, who refused to consider the proposition.

Lodge Acceptable to Teddy.

Oyster Bay, June 10.—Theodore Roosevelt refused to see visitors and his secretary notified newspaper men that a statement of great importance would probably be made later.

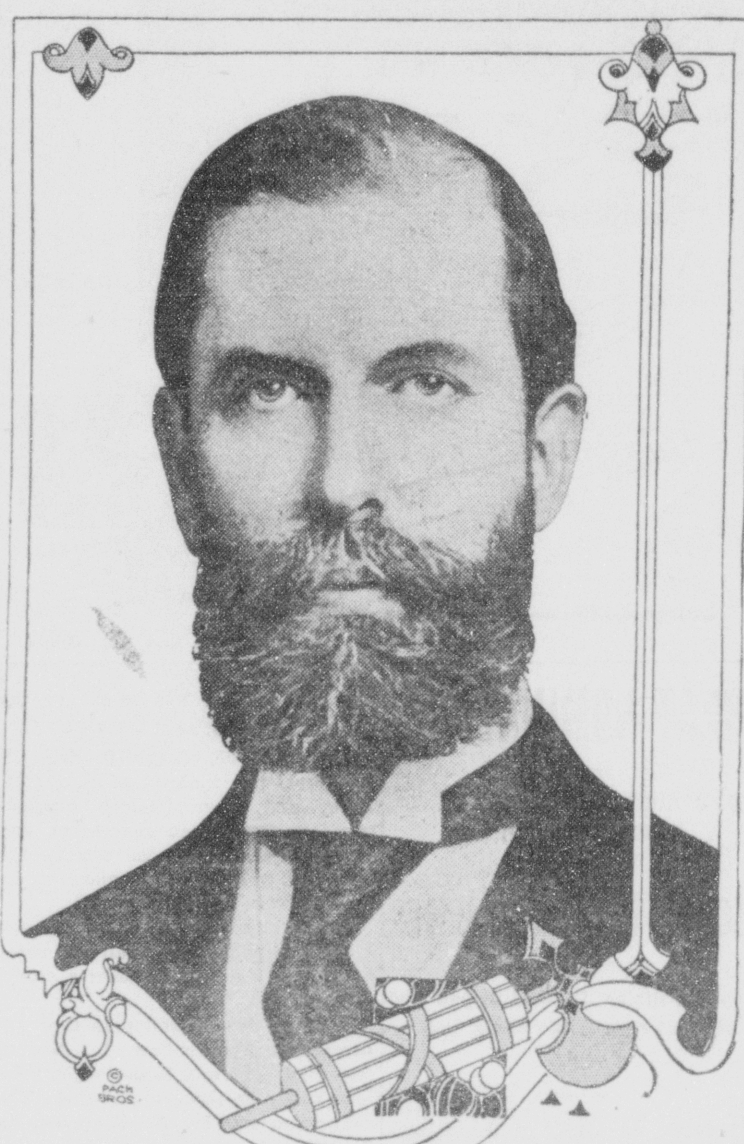

At 11 o'clock today Roosevelt wires to the peace committees that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts was acceptable to him as a compromise candidate. Lodge is chairman of the resolutions committee of the Republican convention. He has long been known as a personal friend of the colonel, and was the first man to mention the former president's name in the Republican convention.

In announcing Senator Lodge as a choice Roosevelt said he was the man to bring peace to the party and that he was highly thought of as a man and efficient as a public officer.

He had gained just seventy-five votes over his total in the first ballot and adjournment was had to give the harmony conferees an opportunity to confer with the Progressive committee regarding the amalgamation of the two parties.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts Offered by Teddy as Acceptable Compromise—Delegates Would Have Only the New Yorker.

Special to The Democrat-Forum. Chicago (Coliseum), June 10.—At 12:29 this afternoon Justice Charles Evans Hughes was made the Republican presidential candidate. The nomination followed the announcement that the Progressives had tabled without action the recommendation of the Hughes nomination. Leaders expressed confidence Roosevelt will withdraw providing Hughes makes a satisfactory statement.

On this ballot, the third, Hughes received 949½, Roosevelt 18½, Lodge 7, Du Pont 5, La Follette 2, absent 1. The Hughes nomination was then made unanimous.

The delegates began shouting for former Vice President Fairbanks of Indiana for vice president. The nominations began at 1:05. John Wanamaker of Pennsylvania placed Fairbanks in nomination. Senator Burkett of Nebraska was also placed in nomination. The first ballot resulted: Fairbanks 863; Burkett 108; Burton, Webster and Johnson, 2 each.

Chairman Harding announced that Hughes has accepted the nomination. Fairbanks also accepts.

Permanent adjournment was taken at 2:05.

Sherman Withdraws to Hughes. Senator Sherman of Illinois this morning announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican nomination in favor of Hughes. Illinois has 58 votes, and on both the first and second ballots Sherman received 56 and Roosevelt 2.

Shortly before the Republican convention convened, the Republican committee sent a message for Chairman Harding, asking him to come there immediately. It was understood that the visit was to arrange for getting the peace report before the convention. Upon Harding's return the convention

THE QUESTION.

GREAT NOMINATIONS

SHORT SPEECHES WHICH MADE AUTHORS FAMOUS.

RECALL TENSE MOMENTS

Ingersoll, Blaine, Garfield, Depew and Others Stepped Into Fame Suddenly.

"I desire on behalf of the delegation from Illinois to put in nomination as a candidate for President of the United States Abraham Lincoln of Illinois."

In this simple sentence N. B. Judd placed Lincoln's name before the Republican convention of 1860.

Eight nominating speeches were made in fifteen minutes. There was no display of the emotions, no review in lurid light of the candidate's career.

How different from the frenzied flights of oratory which have become the fashion of most convention nominators and seconders!

The emotional convention speech usually draws applause and sometimes but not often, results in a nomination. Chauncey M. Depew after speaking for ten minutes in second Harrison's nomination at Minneapolis in 1892, mentioned the name of Blaine. The Maine statesman's delegates, aided by the galleries, took up the rhythmic cry of "Blaine! Blaine! James B. Blaine!" and pandemonium reigned for twenty-three minutes. Then Harrison was nominated.

Ten days later in Chicago, Bourke Cockran in a great speech seconding the nomination of David B. Hill, was confronted by a tremendous vocal demonstration in behalf of Grover Cleveland. In this case the orator failed to accomplish the object he sought, the convention voting as it had cheered.

The year, 1896, brought the free silver fight, the walkout of Henry M. Teller and other western senators from the Republican convention, and at the Democratic convention, the speech in which Bryan declared:

Cross of Gold Famous.

"You shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold. You shall not press down upon the brow of labor a crown of thorns."

A Bryan demonstration in the 1908 Democratic convention in Denver lasted an hour and twenty-eight minutes, easily breaking all records. The convention was for the Nebraskan in the voting too.

Every one remembers the details of the conventions of four years ago—in Chicago the wild demonstration for Roosevelt and another extended period of cheering, which was in part a compliment to Gov. Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri, followed by Taft's renomination on the first ballot; in Baltimore, where Champ Clark, received a majority of votes on the tenth ballot, but Woodrow Wilson was nominated on the forty-fifth in accordance with the two-thirds rule.

Speaker Clark, by the way, has not been the only victim of the two-thirds rule. It was adopted by a Democratic convention first in 1836, and under its operations Martin Van Buren was nominated both in that year and in 1840.

A convention speech has often made an orator's reputation. Robert G. Ingersoll first drew countrywide attention to himself through his clever assembling of flowers of speech in a nominating convention. James A. Garfield's eloquence in another's behalf helped to bring about his own nomination. William Jennings Bryan's "cross of gold" speech was the real beginning of his spectacular career, though this speech was not made, in fact, in behalf of any one's candidacy.

"BILLY" ON BOOZE

EXCERPTS FROM FAMOUS DRIVE ON SALOONS.

CHOICE BIT OF SPLEEN

Noted Evangelist Says He Is Pushing Liquor Traffic Into Hell With a Whoop.

Billy Sunday says:

"The saloon is a thief, it is an ordinary court offender that steals your money, but it robs of manhood and leaves you in rags and takes away your friends, and it robs your family. It impoverishes your children and it brings insanity and suicide.

"It will take the shirt off your back and it will steal the coffin from a dead child and yank the last crumb of bread out of the hands of the starving child; it will take the last bucket of coal out of your cellar, and the last cent out of your pocket, and will send you home bleary-eyed and staggering to your wife and children. It will steal the milk from the breast of the mother and leave her with nothing which to feed her infant. It will take the virtue from your daughter.

"It is the dirtiest, most low down, damnable business that ever crawled out of the pit of hell. It is a sneak, and a thief and a coward.

Booze Denies Our God.

"It is an infidel. It has no faith in God; has no religion. It would close every church in the land. It would hang its beer signs on the abandoned altars. It would close every public school. It respects the thief and it esteems the blasphemer. It fills the prisons and the penitentiaries. It despises heaven, hates love, scorns virtue. It tempts the passions. Its music is the song of a siren. Its sermons are a collection of lewd, vile stories. It wraps a mantle about the hope of this world and that to come. Its tables are full of the vilest literature. It is the moral clearing house for rot, and damnation and poverty, and insanity, and it wrecks homes and blights lives today.

"The saloon is a liar. It promises good cheer and sends sorrow. It promises health and causes disease. It promises prosperity and sends adversity. It promises happiness and sends misery. Yes, it sends the husband home with a lie on his lips to his wife; and the boy home with a lie on his lips to his mother; and it causes the employee to lie to his employer. It degrades. It is God's worst enemy and the devil's best friend. Seventy-five per cent of impurity comes from the grog shop. It spares neither youth nor old age. It is waiting with a dirty blanket for the baby to crawl into this world. It lies in wait for the unborn.

Incites Almost All Crimes.

"It cocks highwayman's pistols. It puts the rope in the hands of the mob. It is the anarchist of the world and its dirty red flag is dyed with the blood of women and children, and it sent the bullet through the body of Lincoln; it nerved the arm that sent the bullet through Garfield and William McKinley. Yes, it is a murderer. Every plot that was ever hatched against our flag and every anarchist plot against the government and law, was born and bred, and crawled out of the grog shop to down this country.

"I tell you that the curse of God Almighty is on the saloon. Legislatures are legislating against it. Decent society is barring it out. The fraternal brotherhoods are knocking it out. The Masons and the Odd Fellows, and the Knights of Pythias, and A. O. U. W. are closing their doors to the whisky sellers. They don't want you wriggling your carcass in their lodges. Yes, sir, I tell you, the curse of God is on it. It is on the down grade. It is headed for hell, and by the grace of God, I am going to give it a push, with a whoop, for all I know how."

It is said that Miss Kate Schenck is going to carry the nickname of "The die" permanently because of the story in this column about the waitresses thinking that she was Theda Bara. Since that story took so well, we will risk another for the young lady's benefit.

As she was coming back to Maryville she was wearing an old hat and carrying a new one in a hatbox. When she handed the box to a redcap in the St. Louis union station, he turned it upside down. When Kate remonstrated and said that he was ruining her hat, he replied, looking at the hat on her head:

"Oh, no, this isn't a new hat. Why, whoever heard of a woman wearing an old hat when she had a new one!"

Last Sunday forenoon Walter Stevenson, who clerks at the Saylor Hardware company, opened the store to get a coat left there the night before, and in leaving forgot to lock the front door. He had only gone a short distance when he met the proprietor, O. H. Saylor, who also had to get something from the building. He stuck his key into the lock but could not turn it; and then called to Walter to see if he could open the door with his key. Stevenson still thinking the door was locked, made no better progress than the owner, and both gave it up as a bad job. A ladder was then secured and the two entered the store by climbing through an upstairs window. When they finally tumbled that the door was unlocked they were somewhat nettled but no naughty words were spoken—it was Sunday!—Hopkins Journal.

Recently that worthy gentleman ordered seven autos for one of the company's use on location and at the specified time instead of seven cars there were at least twenty lined up in front of his office. Nobody could account for the mistake, but Homer Scott offered the explanation that "the error was due to double exposure of the telephone message."

ON SUMMER LIVING

Eat Clean, Wholesome Food and Don't Worry, M. P. Ravenel Advises.

For the preservation of health and production of efficiency, man needs a mixed diet. There are certain food principles which are essential, says Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the department of preventive medicine of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

First, the proteins, whose principal function is the building up of tissue, replacing wear and tear. They are found in meats, eggs, milk and certain vegetables, like beans, peas, lentils and nuts.

Second, the carbohydrates, whose function is chiefly to provide fuel and energy. They are found in two of the ordinarily used foodstuffs—the starches, such as bread, cereals, rice, potatoes, etc.; and the sugars, which are found in the juices of various plants, in honey, etc.

Third, fats, whose function is chiefly to furnish fuel. The chief sources of fats are cream, the fat of meats, many nuts, etc.

Fourth, the minerals and organic acids, which are essential to the body. These are found in many vegetables and certain other foods, particularly in milk and the yolk of eggs.

Certain other principles have been discovered in recent years, among the chief of which are substances called vitamins. These are absolutely essential to well being. They are found in fresh food of all kinds, like meats, yolks of eggs, peas, beans, various vegetables and fruits. They are destroyed by some of our methods of preparation of food. For example, sterilized milk and sterilized canned foods are in large part deprived of these vitamins. We can also take them away from vegetables, like rice, by a high degree of polishing, which has been largely practiced.

Babies fed on sterilized milk sometimes develop scurvy. This can be prevented by feeding a tablespoonful of orange juice once a day.

People should not worry too much about their eating. If the foods are clean, fresh and well prepared, the average person gets a fairly well balanced ration.

In people inclined to overweight, or those who lead sedentary lives, the fats, starches and sugars should be reduced, and fruit and vegetables increased. Those who are underweight, or are engaged in heavy muscular labor, should increase the starches, fats and sugars.

SIGHTS WOULD BRING TEARS.

Former Ambassador Declares if Americans Could Only See Distress as He Had Seen It the Need of Aid Would Be Fully Realized—Says Only Way to Express Sympathy Is to Contribute.

New York.—Former United States Ambassador Henry Morgenthau in a recent interview gave as one of the main reasons for his resignation as ambassador to Turkey his great desire to make known to the people of the United States some of the conditions in the Turkish empire, especially as they affect the long suffering Armenians. He wants to assist in the raising of funds for Armenian relief, to explain the real conditions in Turkey and to make known in a tactful way to the Turkish authorities the thoughts of the American public on the conditions in that land.

Referring to the tragic sufferings of the Armenians and of the need of immediate help to save thousands of men, women and children from dreadful death by starvation, Mr. Morgenthau made the following statement:

"In my childhood I cried over 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' and wept at the way the negroes were sold into slavery.

HENRY MORGENTHAU.

Later on I read 'Evangeline,' and my heart went out to the poor woman and her lover, but all of these things are nothing compared to what went on in Turkey under my own eyes. I do not want to give too many harrowing pictures, but I will say that I have been requested to state that most of the stories that have reached the United States are founded on facts.

"The Armenians were living just as quietly and peacefully as possible, in friendship and close contact with their Turkish associates, when suddenly they were picked out to be deported. It was then that my heart bled for them. I had been given the privilege of dispensing charity without stint and with full authority on behalf of the English, Russian, French and Italian nations—even the Servians had sent me money, and Russia and Italy permitted me to help the poor Montenegrins in my charge. Suddenly, without available funds, I was confronted with the terrible problem of the destitute Armenians. Can you conceive how I felt? It was then that I sent an appeal to the secretary of state for help, and the response came promptly.

"If the people of the United States could only see the distress as I have seen it! If they could see the gaunt little figures of children, the little orphans brought to Constantinople by friendly Turkish officers, the need of prompt aid would be fully realized. If I dared repeat the tales I have heard, sworn to and signed, they would make men and women weep, and every one would see the need of sympathy and help.

"There is no use of accusing anybody or finding fault with any one. What this great country should do to show its appreciation of the wonderful blessings that have been showered upon us is for each one of us to make up his mind to do his share.

"We are the only people to whom they can appeal for help today, the only people who dare express their sympathy by actual giving. The people of other nations are afraid and unable to do it."

Mr. Morgenthau is a member of the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief, of which Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Greer of the Episcopal church, Dr. James L. Burton of the American board of foreign missions, Dr. Arthur J. Brown of the Presbyterian foreign mission board, Dr. Frank Mason North of the Methodist foreign mission board and other prominent ministers and laymen, Protestant, Catholic and Jew, are members. The committee has sent $800,000 to the Armenians and native Christians in Turkey, Persia and Syria since Turkey entered the war, and it is stated that $5,000,000 will be required to save and rehabilitate these peoples.

Place of Meeting at Court House

occurred Saturday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Frank D. Sheets, 62 South View street, Aurora, Ill.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, superintendent of the Aurora district of the Rock River conference of the Methodist churches and the Rev. Ernest Wray Oneal, pastor of the Ottawa Street Methodist church of Joliet, an uncle of the bride, in the presence of 150 relatives and friends.

The rooms were beautifully decorated in quantities of sunburst roses and spring flowers.

Previous to the ceremony Miss Helen Skinner of Wilmette, Ill., one of the bride's sorority sisters, sang, "At Dawning," and at 6 o'clock, to the Mendelssohn wedding march, played by Miss Louise Rhodes of Savannah, Ill., another sorority sister, the bridal party took their places to front of an altar of palms. Six members of the Delta Gamma sorority of Northwestern university stretched the ribbons between which the bride and groom walked.

They were Miss Monna Mored of Aurora, Miss Helen Skinner of Wilmette, Miss Lorraine Powers of Chicago, Miss Katherine Jackson of Chicago, Miss Helen Smith of Joliet and Miss Ruth Montgomery of Maryville, Missouri.

More than the ordinary interest was attached to the beautiful gown worn by the bride, it having been purchased by Mrs. Sheets about six years ago in Milan during the time the family was abroad. It was of handsome Venetian lace and the mode was well adapted to the bride's slender figure.

The idea followed closely in many of the eastern weddings was used by the bride in that the skirt of the gown was rather short in front, and trained. The pannier effect at one side, was draped with orange blossoms. The corsage was cut low. Her filmy veil of tulle falling to the train of her gown was caught to her hair with a half wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

A buffet luncheon was served later in the dining room, which was also profusely decorated with the sunburst roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Chambers left after the wedding for St. Louis and upon their return will make their home at 62 North View street.

The bride is a graduate of Northwestern university, class of 1914, and is a pianist of more than ordinary ability, having studied for a time in Paris. She is one of the popular members of the younger social set in this city. The groom is associated with the Aurora National bank of this city.

Mrs. Chambers is well known here, having been the guest of Miss Montgomery a number of times.

Base Your Judgment on Efficiency---Not Price

The man who spends his money for luxuries frequently becomes indifferent as to quality and durability. If it "looks good" that seems to be sufficient.

You who have been a close observer of the progress made in mechanical skimming, know that the Anker-Holth Self-Balancing Cream Separator has made good, and that it now heads the list of reliable and high-grade separators. From the first it has been a revelation to those who used other separators with varying success.

There isn't another separator made that gives such all-round satisfaction as the Anker-Holth. Its great simplicity, efficiency and dependability form a triple combination that has never been equalled.
